

REMOTE DISCIPLESHIP

WHY?

This helps people to stay connected in a time where they feel lonely and disconnected. This provides encouragement and accountability to people that may not receive that anywhere else. Also, the gospel don't stop for nobody.

WHEN?

Start this as soon as possible.

The longer you wait to establish something, the harder it will be to get started and keep it going.

Every week. The more consistent this is, the better and more effective it will be. You should have someone holding you accountable to meet with these people at least once a week.

WHAT NEXT?

Be intentional. Connecting over distance is not easy, but it is possible if you are intentional

Pray. You have more time now than ever before to faithfully pray for the people you meet with!

Get started. There's no time like the present.

THINGS TO THINK ABOUT

HOW WILL YOU CONNECT?

There are a lot of different methods of communication! Skype, Facetime, Facebook messenger and even Snapchat all have ways of making a face to face call.

WHAT SHOULD YOU TALK ABOUT?

- Set new spiritual goals: This is helpful because being at home just looks different than being at school. Your goals for ministry and life will be different simply because of the different location.
- Set a time, place, and plan for quiet times: If you don't schedule it out, it probably won't happen. This can be something that you ask about every week!
- Talk about "at home" sin struggles: We often times struggle with different things in different places, are there any sin struggles that are specific to being at home that need to be addressed?
- Make their new mission field a priority: Celebrate the new place that God has called them to and help them to develop a strategy about how to be intentional in that new place.
- When in doubt check on their wheel: The word, prayer, community and evangelism are all things that you should regularly ask about.
